How investment option returns are calculated

AustralianSuper declares a daily crediting rate based on the performance of each option (after allowing for investment fees and costs, transaction costs and taxes, and the percentage-based administration fee deducted from returns from 1 April 2020 to 2 September 2022). Returns are determined daily and applied to your account balance:

- at 30 June each year
- when you change investment options
- when you make a partial withdrawal, or
- when you close your account.

If you'd like to know the crediting rates that applied for each day of the period, or for more information about all investment options, visit australiansuper.com/investments

You can view an estimate of your current balance at any time, taking into account all transactions and investment returns, by logging into your account at australiansuper.com/login

Your insurance cover

Your insurance cover and monthly cost

As at 30 June 2024

Type of cover	Total cover amount	Monthly cost of cover[1]
Death	$154,000	$10.48
Total & Permanent Disablement (TPD)	$40,000	$4.93
Income Protection	$3,100 a month	$12.27
Benefit payment period	Up to two years
Waiting period	60 days
Individual work rating	Blue Collar

This table shows your cover at 30 June 2024. If you made any changes to your cover or it stopped after 30 June 2024, log into your account and go to Insurance to see your up-to-date cover. AustralianSuper insurance is provided by TAL Life Limited (the Insurer) ABN 70 050 109 450 AFSL 237848.

Cover can stop for many reasons. For a list of events that can make cover stop, see the Insurance in your super guide at australiansuper.com/InsuranceGuide for more information.

To see how much your cover cost for the last financial year, go to the Your transaction summary in this statement.

Your Death cover is age-based cover.

Your TPD cover is age-based cover.

Your Income Protection is age-based cover.

Your Income Protection amount may be unsuitable if it's more than 85% of your salary. This is because you won't be able to claim for the full cover amount you're paying for. If eligible, your benefit payments will be based on your pre-disability income and other factors. Benefit payments can't be greater than 85% of your pre-disability income (up to 75% is paid to you and up to 10% to your super) and they may be reduced by income you receive from other sources. See the Insurance in your super guide at australiansuper.com/InsuranceGuide for more information.

[1] This is the cost of cover for the month ending 30 June 2024. The cost of your cover is based on a weekly amount and calculated monthly. This means your total cost will change from month to month. How to make a claim

To talk about a possible claim, call us on 1300 667 387 from 8.30am to 5pm AEST/AEDT weekdays. Our insurance representatives will help you.

You can also find out more about applying for a payment at australiansuper.com/claim

Circumstances that may affect your cover

There are events and circumstances that may affect your insurance and won't be covered by the Insurer if you make a claim. Depending on your situation, terms and conditions, including limited cover and standard exclusions may apply to your cover.

To learn more, see the Limited cover and standard exclusions, Making a claim, and Words and terms used sections of the Insurance in your super guide at australiansuper.com/InsuranceGuide

Changing or cancelling your cover

You can cancel, change or apply for insurance cover anytime, by using the app or logging into your account and going to Insurance or completing the relevant form at australiansuper.com/InsuranceForms

Checking your cover amount

If you're not sure how much (if any) cover is right for you, you can use our insurance calculator to work out how much you might need and what it might cost, based on your age as well as other personal and financial details.
Go to australiansuper.com/InsuranceCalculator

What is a work rating?

A work rating classifies the usual activities of your job into one of three ratings: Blue Collar, White Collar or Professional. Your work rating is one of the factors that determines how much you pay for your insurance cover. Insurance cover with a Blue Collar work rating is the most expensive.

Could you pay less for your cover?

Learn more about work ratings and whether you could pay less at australiansuper.com/WorkRatings

Why the cost of cover changes

As you get older, the cost of your cover generally increases. If you change your cover amount, your cost will also change.

If insurance costs and terms and conditions change during the year, this can also impact the cost of your cover. We'll write to you if this happens.

Cost of your cover impacts your savings

You pay for insurance from your super account. This means you'll have less for retirement. But having cover can provide peace of mind for you and your family if the worst happens. That's why it's a good idea to consider if your cover is right for you.

[1] Flat administration fees of $1 per week are deducted from your account on the last Friday of each month based on the number of Fridays in the month.

[2] Asset-based administration fees of 0.10% p.a. of your account balance are deducted on the last Friday of the month based on your closing account balance on this date and are pro-rated based on the number of Fridays in the month (capped at $350 p.a. and applied monthly).

[3] Government contribution tax includes any contributions tax paid less a 15% tax benefit of $52.21 on any insurance costs you have paid.

Contributions to your account

Under Superannuation Guarantee (SG) laws, for the year ended 30 June 2024 employers must pay at least 11% of an eligible employee's salary for ordinary hours of work into super.

Employers are legally required to make SG contributions into your super account every 3 months – by 28 October, 28 January, 28 April and 28 July. Having a weekly, fortnightly or monthly super payment amount listed on your payslip doesn't always mean your employer has made this payment to your super account. You can check that your super contributions from your employer are correct by logging into your account or via the app.

You can also make extra contributions to your account, from either your before-tax or after-tax salary. Contributions made from your after-tax salary generally won't be taxed again, either when paid into your super account or withdrawn on retirement. Contributions made from your before-tax salary (salary sacrifice contributions) are usually subject to 15% contributions tax. If you earn more than $250,000 p.a. or have not provided your TFN or go over the concessional contribution cap extra taxes may apply.
Government taxes shown in Your transaction summary, comprise contributions taxes paid less the benefit of a 15% tax deduction received on any insurance costs (if applicable).

Outstanding contribution payments

When super payments from participating employers are overdue, AustralianSuper issues written communication to employers. If these contributions are not received following written communication, we may refer the matter for debt collection.

Your fees and costs summary

Fees deducted directly from your account -$454.51

This amount has been deducted directly from your account (reflected in the transactions listed on this statement under Your transaction summary).

Fees and costs deducted from your investment -$283.01

This approximate amount has been deducted from your investment and covers amounts that have reduced the return on your investment and that are not reflected as transactions listed on this statement.

This amount comprises:

Investment fees and costs	-$254.00
Transaction costs	-$29.01

TOTAL FEES AND COSTS YOU PAID	-$737.52

This approximate amount includes all fees and costs that affected your investment during the period.

If your account balance for a product is less than $6,000 at the end of the current financial year, certain fees and costs charged to you in relation to the administration and investment of your account are capped at 3% of the account balance. Any amount charged in excess of that cap has been refunded and shown in Your transaction summary as a Low balance fee cap refund which has reduced the amount of Fees deducted directly from your account.

Additional explanation of fees and costs

Fees deducted directly from your account

This amount includes flat and asset-based administration fees and any fees and costs you paid for additional services which may include:

- Advice fees – fees for financial advice relating to your AustralianSuper account. Deducted directly from your account when your fee consent is processed, or from your Member Direct Cash account in arrears on the first business day following the end of the month or quarter.
- Insurance fees – insurance costs will apply if you have insurance cover as part of your super.

Fees and costs deducted from your investments

Some fees and costs do not appear in Your transaction summary as they are not deducted directly from your account. These include:

- Investment fees and costs and Transaction costs, which are deducted from pre-tax investment returns and reflected in the daily crediting rate of the relevant PreMixed or DIY Mix investment option.
- Administration costs paid from reserves that are not otherwise charged as administration fees which have reduced the reserve balance held by the Fund to cover future administration costs.

Tax deductions

When AustralianSuper has claimed a tax deduction, you may have benefited as follows:

- Flat and asset-based administration fees: A 15% tax benefit was paid directly into your account on the last Friday of each month.
- Investment fees and costs and Transaction costs: Claimed as a deduction against taxable investment income and included in the daily crediting rate for the relevant investment option.
- Insurance fees: A 15% tax benefit on any insurance costs has been applied as an offset against any contribution tax payable, and the resulting amount has been either deducted from or paid to your account at the end of each month.
